ACCORDION BAND - These students of Andy Zurine, 32 Reservoir Street, Simpson, (pictured at far right), performed a concert at Slovak Hall, Holy Trinity Church, Simpson, in November 1983. At that time, Zurine couldn't find enough time to instruct everyone who wanted to take accordion lessons. Today, Zurine has fewer than five students. "There are some kids today who don't even know what an accordion is," Zurine told the NEWS.

Social Security tax rate increases to seven percent, but effective rate stays the same

Although the Social Security tax rate for employees will increase from 6.7 to 7 percent for 1984, the effective tax rate for employees will remain at 6.7 percent. This is because employers will receive a credit for the increase. The 1984 Social Security tax rate for self-employed people will be 14 percent. More information about Social Security can be obtained at the Carbondale City Hall and the accomplishments of the Carbondale Historical Society.

Cottage Hose Co. celebrates 90th anniversary

The members of Carbondale's Cottage Hose Company will celebrate their 90th anniversary this year and will mark the milestone with an anniversary dance on April 28. Proud of their 90 years of dedicated service to the community, the company looks back to 1893 when a group of men from the Cottage Street area gathered together to decide on some means of fire protection for that area. It was decided that a company known as the Cottage Hose Company No. 2 would be founded and on February 9, 1893, its charter was received. The company was incorporated on March 9, 1894 and the president was elected as W. Archibald. The said corporation was to be managed by a Board of Trustees consisting of five members: John J. McAndrew, William F. Dally, Henry Cook, P.J. McDonough and Thomas Nelson. The first fire house was a one and a half story building on Cottage Street. The company's first piece of fire fighting equipment was a hand drawn truck which was abandoned a short time later for a horse drawn truck. To purchase the new equipment, money was raised by a carnival in a field in the Cottage Street area and S. Brooklyn Street. The new building was built on the site of the old building, which was completely destroyed and replaced by the new building. In 1960 the Cottage Hose Company purchased a new truck and a new recreation hall. The present truck was purchased in 1958. Currently the Hose Co. consists of fifteen members, twelve of whom are active. The fire house is a two and a half story building on Cottage Street. It is a service well used by the students. In addition to regular classes, NIE is also starting word processing and Real Estate classes in January. Mass Lillian Principal, director of Word Processing and Business Services, reported that word processing seminars consist of 24 hours of actual hands-on instruction. Classes run on Monday-Wednesday combination, Tuesday-Thursday combination, or on Saturdays or Sundays. There are openings in some of the classes, and any one interested can contact the word processing office by calling 344-4080 or 342-1885. Real Estate classes will be starting in Scranton and in Hazleton on January 16. Many of the real estate students are planning to take their required courses now so that they can sit for the Real Estate Salesperson's exam in early spring and possibly have their license for summer employment in real estate. The Institute is approved by the Pennsylvania State Board of Education. Any one interested in more information or enrollment in the January class is urged to call the NIE admissions office at 342-1380.

NIE announces start of new classes

Dr. Gregory C. Walker, president of the Northeast Institute of Education, announced that the business school, announced the start of a new class in January. Commenting on the makeup of the class, Dr. Walker said, "Today's students are amazing. They have, for the most part, investigated the employment situation. They know what skills they need to be competitive in a tight job market; they don't want to get into the data processing classes even though some of them tell you they are scared to death of the computers and sure they can't learn how to master them; and now they have even determined the best time to graduate so they'll have the advantage of getting first pick of the jobs. Many of the women in the incoming class are married with children and have to arrange for the care of the children while they are in school. They are motivated by such students returning to the classroom after a number of years' absence. Dr. Walker, continuing, said, "We have been running almost evenly divided between June 1983 and January 1984. The out of school ten or more years. But the group entering in January is made up primarily of people out of school ten or more years. One woman said she was almost afraid to start until she saw the ages of the others at orientation with her; then she felt much more comfortable. While there are students from Carbondale, Hazleton, Pittston and Old Forge among the enrollees, the class is made up mainly of graduates of local high schools. "It has been particularly gratifying to me, as an educator, to see the dichotomy of age groups working so well together and helping one another when necessary. Even those who have been out of school for a long time are working side by side. And the Honor List for the last two marking periods have shown that the older students really mean business!" Another facet of our unique training is our four-day school week, with Friday a day for tutoring - a service given our students free of charge. In many cases this service has meant the difference between success and failure. And it is a service well used by the students.
